Seniors

The graduating class of 1981 started out their year by picking out the colors and getting measured for their caps and gowns, next they ordered their announcements.

To raise money for the colored pictures in the yearbook and for the all-night graduation party, the senior class held sub-sales.

In Memory Of...

Scott L. Bushre

Thomas E. Moulton, Jr.

Scott and Tom

Though we may be filled With pain and sorrow, Let's pray they find A serene tomorrow.

Life must go on So they say We may be with them Some other day.

So young and handsome All through their years, Now that they're gone It brings us tears. You may not have known them, The way we do. You may not have loved them Or feel as blue.

Never having the chance Never able to find, If we could give this How we'd be so kind.

The friends we knew And loved so much Had certain ways, A special touch.

> Poem by Rod Grover Odessa, NY

Dedicated by the Class of '81

To live in the heart of the one you love, is to live forever.

The National Honor Society is chosen on the basis of Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character.

The first business was to elect officers and get ready for induction ceremony to initiate the new members and welcome back the old. They had a potluck dinner and had the Alma College Mime Troupe as entertainment.

The Spanish Club started out the year with the election of officers. Their next project was the construction of their float, "Upside Down You're Turning Me". The breaking of the pinata and the exchange of secret gifts completed the "espiritu" of Christmas. The high point of the year was a trip to a Mexican restaurant, Casa del Rey in Saginaw.

Journalism - Memories of

Although the staff was inexperienced, under the leadership of Ms. Morton - the year was very successful.

Part of the staff went to a yearbook seminar which was held at Central Michigan University. They attended classes concerning photography, finance, and advance page design.

Our staff took a day off from school so they could sell advertising. Selling advertising, patrons, yearbooks, and cheese and sausage put us on top of our financial situation.

Homecoming Day encountered rain, October 3, 1980, but the activities were carried on. The parade was held in the afternoon with the Senior class taking first prize for their float, "Another One Bites the Dust" The game was that night against Ithaca with the victory being ours. The dance was held afterwards with entertainment by "Milestone".

The Homecoming court consisted of Freshman representative, Tina Weburg; Sophomore representative, Teri Secord; and Junior representative, Tammy Darland. The queen candidates were Lisa Belles, Debbie Dean, Sari Smith, and Donine Spaulding. The student body chose Debbie Dean as its 1980-81 Homecoming Queen. The attendants were Renny Rohde and Heather Wertz.

JR. HIGH STUDENT COUNCIL

1980-81 was a productive year for the Breckenridge Junior High Student Council. They started the year off winning a prize for their float in the Homecoming parade. Winter months provided more social activities than the Junior High has ever had: a roller skating party, four D.J. dances and activity nights. The busy year was finalized in the spring with a exchange day with the Merrill Middle School

Student Council.

The 8th graders started out their second year of Junior High and tried to make it a great one. They participated in boys and girls basketball and in many junior high activities, like junior high track, junior high dances, junior high activity nights, junior high rollerskating, and junior high student council. They tried very hard and made it a very productive great year.

No Recesses might seem a little strange to a seventh grader. Along with so many people in one school. Being a seventh grader means taking on new responsibilities like new teachers and new classes. The seventh graders get new experiences such as Jr. High Dances, Roller Skating Parties and Student Council.
